Says Hollyday Did Not Push Housing Probes

Cole Testifies At Hearing by Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators were told today that Guy T. O. Hollyday, fired as head of the Federal Housing Administration, accepted with praise the resignation of a high FHA official charged with heavy gambling and demanding money from people seeking FHA loans.

Federal housing chief Albert M. Cole gave the testimony in explaining why the White House last week fired Hollyday without warning.

Cole told the Senate Banking committee that Hollyday's "administrative laxity" was the main reason for his abrupt dismissal.

Cole did not identify the official he charged with "serious irregularities." But he said at one point that the official had been in charge of the rental apartment program.

Powell Refuses to Answer

Clyde L. Powell, suspended assistant FHA commissioner who had been in charge of that program, resigned earlier in the month and received a commendatory letter from Hollyday. The administration later refused to allow the resignation pending an investigation of Powell's division. Powell Monday refused to answer any questions for the committee on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews told another committee that stockholders reaped a 28-million-dollar tax "bonanza" on profits from government-guaranteed loans which represented more than the cost of rental housing projects.

Andrews testified before the Joint Congressional committee on Non-Essential Federal Expenditures that the government hopes to recover most of the sum.

Did Not Follow Through

Andrews also revealed that the Internal Revenue Service is investigating income tax returns of government appraisers who set the value of these projects far above actual costs. He said at least one case of "indicated corruption" had been found.

In his testimony before the Banking committee Cole also indirectly criticized Hollyday for not pressing vigorously enough the investigation into excessive loans in the apartment building program.

Cole admitted under questioning by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) that the FHA as an independent agency was not required to report to Cole and that it could refer cases directly to the FBI.

Cole said Hollyday did not follow through on investigating reported abuses in the housing program.

History of Old Shawneetown in Rotary Program

Louis Aaron, president of the Saline county historical society and principal of Lincoln school in Eldorado, gave the program at the weekly dinner meeting of the Harrisburg Rotary club last night.

Aaron, introduced by John Foster, talked and showed slides on the historical and cultural background of Old Shawneetown. His interesting and informative narration was enjoyed immensely by the Rotarians.

As early as 1800 Old Shawneetown was a well established community, Aaron revealed. As a part of the Indiana territory at that time, it was viewed as a gateway to the West and as an important shipping point of the salt industry.

Old Shawneetown today has the distinction of being the oldest town in the State on the Ohio river. Aaron related much of the history regarding the old salt wells and licks near Equality. His lecture then confined most of its references to Old Shawneetown and nearby community. He exhibited numerous slides of the old buildings and dwellings of the community, telling their historical background and that of their originating families.

The speaker also gave many interesting sidelights and stories on the Shawneetown of pre-Civil War days.

Other guests at the club last night were Bob Campbell, geologist, and Jack Healy and Chet Ferrell, of the construction firm directing operations on the Mitchellsville road.

Legal Bingo Issue Expected to Affect Congressional Vote in New Jersey

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Voters mark ballots in a statewide primary election today with a hotly debated "legal bingo" question likely to affect the outcome of close congressional races.

The controversial proposal to legalize raffles and bingo games for charity purposes was expected to swell a normally light vote in the nation's second 1954 primary. Intensive campaigns have been waged by supporters of both sides of the issue, which will be decided on a local option basis. As a result, state election officials predicted the turnout at the polls would be "moderately heavy."

Clear skies were forecast. Voters will pick congressional candidates in eight of the state's 14 districts. For the first time in many years the nomination for the U. S. Senate was eliminated from the primary by both parties.

The Democrats have congressional contests in five districts and the Republicans in three. Two of the Republican contests were watched for trends in voter thinking toward policies of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and President Eisenhower.

In one of the GOP races, former Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, who served a prison term for padding a federal payroll, has campaigned against the incumbent, Rep. William B. Windell, on the declared ground that a vote for Thomas is an endorsement of McCarthy.

In another Republican contest, Fred E. Shepard, a former assemblyman, was considered "the man to beat," although Guy Gabrielson Jr., son of the former GOP national chairman, was a candidate in the seven-way race.

The attack against the United States in the government newspaper Iztvestia coincided with the opening of the Supreme Soviet, the fourth since the constitution of 1936 was adopted. This Soviet was elected last March 14, shortly after the death of Premier Joseph Stalin.

The Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, consists of the 708-member Soviet of the Union and the 639-member Soviet of the Nationalities.

In London, Western observers regarded the Iztvestia statements as the culmination of the propaganda campaign against the United States in preparation for the Geneva conference starting next Monday.

They believed the article may provide the keynote for speeches at the Soviet sessions.

In a speech to the Supreme Soviet last August, Malenkov announced that Russia had the hydrogen bomb.

Iztvestia accused "American reactionary newspapers" of "assiduously spreading fables about the 'Communist menace'."

It said American propagandists were raising this "obviously tendentious hullabaloo" to conceal facts about the proposed American-led Pacific military alliance.

Iztvestia said the Pacific plan was a project "for the establishment of one more imperialist bloc headed by the U. S. A. designed for the suppression of the national liberation movement of the Asian peoples, and for the preservation of the colonial domination of the imperialist powers in the Asian countries."

The government organ said U. S. business "monopolies" were following closely behind the military in moving into Indochina.

The commission voted instead for a Western powers proposal that Russia join the United States, Britain, France and Canada in private talks on world disarmament.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky said the five-nation subcommittee named "could create difficulties for the Soviet Union" but did not elaborate.

The commission voted 9 to 1 to set up the five-nation subcommittee. Russia voted against it and Lebanon and Nationalist China abstained.

It will be known by Friday, when the first meeting of the new subcommittee is held, whether Russia will carry out its threatened boycott.

The subcommittee is to discuss disarmament problems including prohibition of atomic and hydrogen bombs.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told Vishinsky that threats of a boycott were a "thinly veiled threat to peace."

After discussing possible ways to alleviate the situation it was decided to call in Julius Steinmarch, executive secretary of the Saline County Housing authority, to see what could be worked out.

Russian Paper Accuses U. S. Of Intervention

Malenkov Attends Opening Session Of Supreme Soviet

MOSCOW (AP)—The first session of the new Supreme Soviet opened today and the Soviet government newspaper accused the United States of "intervention in the hostilities" in Indochina.

Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov attended the session of the Soviet Parliament at the grand palace of the Kremlin as one of the 1,300 delegates. He was flanked by Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, and other top officials.

Observers were uncertain whether Malenkov would make a speech when it comes time for the policy declarations at the closing session expected toward the end of the week.

The attack against the United States in the government newspaper Iztvestia coincided with the opening of the Supreme Soviet, the fourth since the constitution of 1936 was adopted. This Soviet was elected last March 14, shortly after the death of Premier Joseph Stalin.

Council Vexed at Barcus-Kindred Action on Purchase of Lake Bonds

The council of the City of Harrisburg today moved to remove what could be a snag in the building of Lake Harrisburg.

The council, upon motion which passed unanimously, instructed the city clerk to wire Barcus-Kindred, the firm in Chicago which has the contract to buy the bonds, and Howard Percy of Mt. Vernon, the firm's southern Illinois representative, demanding that $69,000 bond issue be projected $200,000 bond issue be bought immediately so that the lake land can be purchased.

The city has a contract with Barcus-Kindred and it calls for $69,000 in bonds for the land purchase. However, the council has been informed that Barcus-Kindred is now wanting to buy only $51,000 in bonds to take care of the land buying. Members said that Barcus-Kindred was advised by Chapman and Cutler, Chicago law firm that advises Barcus-Kindred, that only $51,000 in bonds should be bought now, basing this figure on the water department's audit of earnings.

Notice to Option Holders Council members visibly were vexed at this latest move and the telephone lines to Percy in Mt. Vernon warmed up a bit over this latest decision.

City Atty. Scerial Thompson, instructed two weeks ago to give notice to option holders that the city desired to exercise the options, reported to the council that the notices had been sent by registered mail to all the holders and that receipts denoting delivery had been returned.

Dr. B. E. Montgomery, representing the First Methodist church, was at this morning's meeting to discuss a possible widening of Webster street between Poplar and Locust, alongside of where the construction of the new Methodist church has begun.

Discuss Hazardous Parking The proposal is to widen the street approximately 20 feet on the east side, which would eliminate the hazardous jog at the Locust and Webster street intersection. Such a venture, it was pointed out, also would provide for a block of parallel parking on the west side of Webster as well as give the city a straight street.

The church offered to furnish the concrete if the city would build the block.

The proposition received a favorable impression from the council members, who said the matter would be looked into to the fullest to see how such a project could be worked.

Also discussed this morning was the hazardous condition on Barnett street in front of the housing development in Dorrisville. Chief of Police Loren Travelstead said that children were darting out from between cars parked on the south side of Barnett street and that if this practice continued, one was going to get hit by a passing motorist.

See Contest in 44th District Primary Vote

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP)—An official canvass of 44th District primary election ballots today showed State Rep. W. J. McDonald, Murphysboro, was nominated over G. R. Beckmeyer, Nashville, last Tuesday. But the tally is almost certain to be contested because of an apparent error in Sand Ridge Precinct 2 of Jackson county.

Beckmeyer and his lawyer were reported planning action of some sort.

The official canvass figures—including the faulty tabulation—gave McDonald 14,082 votes, Dr. T. J. Thornton, Chester, also an incumbent representative, 14,023 1-2 and Beckmeyer 13,940.

Unofficial returns last Wednesday gave Thornton 14,049 votes, Beckmeyer 13,910 and McDonald 13,848.

Jackson county officials making the canvass Monday found the discrepancy between unofficial and official tallies for Sand Ridge Precinct 2, where election officials certified 84 Republicans voted in the primary. However, their tally list showed a total of 518 votes, possible only if 173 Republicans voted with three votes each for state representative nominations.

Unofficial returns from the Sand Ridge Precinct 2 last Tuesday totaled 197 votes, which was below the 84 GOP ballots certified.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Strauss Regrets Fuss He's Caused; AEC Boss Fears He's Alienated Top Scientists; Oppenheimer Requested Formal Hearings.

WASHINGTON — Inside facts as to how the Atomic Energy Commission happened to suspend the man who built the atom bomb go back to a congressional hearing when Dr. Oppenheimer tangled publicly with Adm. Lewis Strauss. Senator McCarthy at that time was not involved. He decided to jump aboard the Oppenheimer story only after the AEC investigation was well under way, and because he recognized it as a good way to get back in the headlines.

But as a result of McCarthy's jump, Admiral Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was scared to death last week over where the probe he started was heading.

To friends he confided that he was sorry he ever brought the Oppenheimer matter up. Belatedly he realizes that he's stirred up a national hornet's nest, played right into McCarthy's hands, and alienated some of the nation's top scientists—men essential to his success as AEC chairman.

It was about one year ago—May, 1953—that McCarthy first thought of "going after Oppie." But he rejected the idea on the advice of friends. They advised that Dr. Oppenheimer's record was well known, had been thoroughly probed by the House Un-American Activities Committee when Vice President Nixon and Senator Mundt of South Dakota were members, and any investigation now would backfire. So one year ago McCarthy decided against it, never dreaming that Admiral Strauss and the White House would play right into his hands.

STRAUSS RETALIATED
Strauss meanwhile became chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission on July 2. Almost the first thing he did, five days afterward, was order secret documents withdrawn from Oppenheimer and later he initiated a full-scale probe.

Those who have worked in the AEC say Strauss had developed a violent prejudice against Oppenheimer ever since Strauss, a Republican, had sided with Senator Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican, in his charges that AEC Chairman David Lilienthal had been guilty of "incredible mismanagement."

Strauss, then an AEC commissioner, testified generally against Lilienthal that the AEC program of exporting radioactive isotopes to be used in medical research for cancer, was dangerous because the isotopes might be used by a European power to produce weapons.

Strauss was followed on the witness stand by Oppenheimer who completely demolished the admiral's argument and made him look like a fool. The admiral is a bit vain, and can be vindictive. According to associates he never forgave Oppie.

Strauss insists that his name be pronounced as "Straus," and though most of his life was spent on Wall Street as a partner of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., he emphasizes the point that he is a Virginian and maintains a 2,000-acre estate there.

A former secretary to Herbert Hoover, Strauss was one of the few reserve officers to be promoted to the rank of admiral during the war. In 1946 he was appointed by President Truman to the Atomic Energy Commission.

OPPIE REFUSES TO QUIT
Strauss resigned in 1950 after the abortive Hickenlooper probe, but was reappointed last year by Eisenhower as chairman. Among the first things he did was start a probe of the man who had disagreed with him on isotopes, and appoint David "Fatty" Teeple, a glorified Washington gumshoe-man as his special assistant.

Teeple, a friend of McCarthy's assistant Don Surine, had served under Senator Hickenlooper when the congressional atomic committee was probing the AEC, but was demoted by the late Sen. Brian McMahon. No friend of Oppenheimer, Teeple has been considered a link between McCarthy and the AEC.

Meanwhile, Strauss's probe of Oppenheimer which began last summer, had dug up no new facts, so on December 21 the admiral asked Oppenheimer to come see him.

In the room with Strauss when Oppenheimer arrived was Maj. Gen. Kenneth D. Nichols, AEC general manager.

"Someone," said Strauss, "has revived these old charges against you."

Strauss did not reveal that he himself had withdrawn secret papers from Oppenheimer five days after he assumed office in July. But he did urge Oppenheimer to resign as an AEC consultant. In fact, most of their meeting was spent trying to persuade Oppenheimer to resign. Strauss wanted him to go quietly, though he warned that the alternative was suspension.

Two days later, December 23, Oppenheimer went back to see the admiral, handed him a letter stating that he couldn't possibly resign in the face of the absurd charges made against him, and that he intended to fight the whole thing out. The admiral in reply handed Oppenheimer the letter of suspension signed by General Nichols recently made public.

IRE CONSULTED
Two weeks later Oppenheimer wrote the AEC asking for formal hearings. It was at this point that Strauss became uneasy. Though he had taken the precaution of discussing the matter with Eisenhower, and had sold like on the idea of a security review, he was fearful of the public reaction in case of a leak.

And as expected, the leak occurred shortly thereafter to Senator

McCarthy. McCarthy immediately recognized that for the first time, Oppenheimer had become "fair game." Prior to this McCarthy had been fearful of public reaction. But now he could talk about spies in the atomic-bomb program, and when someone challenged him, he need only let drop the astounding news that Dr. Oppenheimer had been "suspended."

This was the reason for McCarthy's carefully timed teaser on the Ed Murrow program in which he claimed the hydrogen bomb had been delayed for 18 months because of Communist sympathies.

All this is also why scientists all over the nation are up in arms and why the probe of Dr. Oppenheimer may prove the worst boner since the firing of Dr. Allen Astin from the Bureau of Standards last year.

Bridges Praises DAR Alertness To Red Danger

WASHINGTON — Daughters of the American Revolution today applauded a demand by Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) that America's allies "stand up and be counted" in the fight to save Southeast Asia from communism.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee, praised the DAR at the opening session of its 63rd Congress for its early alertness to the Communist danger.

"I've seen you smeared, I've seen you abused," Bridges said. "But the years have justified your position."

Bridges compared the present Indochina crisis to the danger posed by Japan in World War II. He said the survival of this country may be at stake in the 7-year-old Indochina war.

"The time has now come when we must expect from the friends to whose welfare we have so generously contributed some specific and unequivocal cooperation," he added.

Earlier Miss Gertrude S. Caraway, DAR president general, drew applause when she said: "Just as pioneer adventurers had to be vigilant and courageous, so do we today in seeking to insure our way of life against Communist spies, socialistic or fascist trends, treaty powers and world government proposals which might circumvent the priceless assets making our country so outstanding, outproducing and outranking all others."

Started "Pin Money"
The reign of Charles I. of England, gave us the term "pin money." Pinmakers gave their monarch 500 pounds annually for his good will, and he turned the sum over to his queen for her private use.

Study Cost of Shipping Coal By Pipe Line

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. disclosed today that cost studies are being made preliminary to construction of a revolutionary pipe line to ship coal to the Cleveland area.

Joseph Fursiglove Jr., vice president in charge of research and development, said an independent engineering firm has been retained for the study. Negotiations already are underway for customer contracts for sale of the "piped" coal.

The proposed pipeline would run from the Cadiz, Ohio, area to Cleveland, or about 110 miles. It would carry fine coal mixed with water, which would be dried from the coal after transportation.

The company has been experimenting with piped coal for several years. Pilot operations have been carried on at Cadiz and Library, Pa.

The proposed line would be the first commercial transportation of coal by pipeline. A company spokesman said "it would be a good guess" construction might start this summer if the engineering study discloses favorable cost factors.

First 'Help Korea Train' Begins Cross-Country Run

NEW YORK (AP)—The first section of the "Help Korea Trains" begins a cross-country run today to gather merchandise contributed by the American people to the American-Korean Foundation's drive for aid in the rehabilitation of South Korean homes, schools, farms and industry.

Two other trains will be started later from Philadelphia and Boston, the foundation announced. The organization hopes that the trains will have gathered 600 carloads containing 36 million pounds of vitally needed goods and materials by the time they reach the San Francisco Bay area for shipment to Korea.

The train project is being operated without cost to the foundation through the Association of American Railroads. Freight cars will be spotted on railroad sidings in communities all over the nation for loading of donated commodities. In addition, the foundation is seeking 10 million dollars in cash contributions.

Mr. Reed, who taught school here at one time, is a former professor of economics at the University of Arkansas.

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State police today had orders to report all mysterious cases of windshield pitting and so information may be turned over to University of Illinois scientists for study of the matter.

Soviet Buildup Is Defensive, Wilson Believes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson believes the Russians are "much more afraid of us than we are of them."

He said his analysis would indicate the Soviet military buildup has been mainly defensive.

In congressional testimony made public Monday night, Wilson also said he considers the American people "reasonably secure" from an enemy atomic attack.

He told a House appropriations subcommittee early last February that he does not believe the Russian leaders "are going to start a war by dropping a bomb on us when they know there is going to be immediate and massive retaliation."

Asked by Rep. George D. Mahon (D-Tex.) if he considers this country "highly vulnerable" at the present to an atomic attack, Wilson said, "No... I think it is vulnerable but not highly vulnerable."

The defense chief repeatedly refused under persistent questioning to estimate the number of enemy bombers which might succeed in breaking through perimeter defenses to drop bombs on U. S. cities.

"It would depend partly on the time of day they came," he said. "It would depend upon how much warning we had... upon whether they did it now, or three years from now."

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining said the Air Force can deliver an immediate counter attack upon Moscow "with or without atomic and other new bombs" with its long range bombers.

The Air Force chief of staff told the Macdon Chamber of Commerce Monday night the long range bomber makes the interior of Russia vulnerable "regardless of the types of bombs or weapons that might be carried."

Sentenced to Hang For 'Near Perfect' Murder of Wife

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—G. Edward Grammer was sentenced today by Judge Herman M. Moser to hang during the week of June 7th for the "near perfect" murder of his wife, Dorothy May Grammer, in a fake automobile accident.

The actual day and hour of execution will be set by the warden of the Maryland Penitentiary. Only executive clemency by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin can save the balding 37-year-old one-time New York office manager from death on the gallows.

Grammer was convicted of bludgeoning his attractive 33-year-old wife to death on August 19, 1952, then placing her body in the family automobile and sending it down a hill on the outskirts of Baltimore to resemble an automobile accident.

The state charged that the motive was Grammer's "hopeless love" for Mathilda Mizibrocky, a Canadian then employed by the United Nations in New York.

Bell and Zoller Closes Mine for Repairs

CHICAGO (AP)—Bell and Zoller Coal Co. announced today that its No. 3 mine at Zeigler, Ill., will be closed for repairs for "about a month."

A company spokesman said the demand for coal has been "very slack" and the firm decided to take this opportunity for repair work.

Carrier Delivers 25 Fighter Planes To Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — A United States aircraft carrier has delivered 25 American Corsair fighter planes to Indochina and they will go into action soon to bolster the shrinking defenses of Dien Bien Phu, it was revealed officially today.

More paratroopers jumped to reinforce the surrounded stronghold which has been reduced to less than three-quarters of a square mile under constant Communist pressure.

The single-seat Corsairs arrived aboard the 15,000-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Saipan, military authorities said.

They are believed to be the powerful 450-mile-an-hour fighter models which proved effective in close ground support against the Chinese Communists in Korea. They thus would be the fastest planes ever used in Indochina.

A French aviation group of 120 specially trained pilots and maintenance personnel stood by to take over the planes. Officials said they will be ready for action shortly.

Ex-Hubby is Shot, Slashed, Beaten by Tiny Former Wife

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Doctors said today that Roy Hasselquist would survive an attack by his 4-foot-10-inch-tall ex-wife who shot him, beat him on the head with a claw hammer and slashed him with a butcher knife.

Mrs. Betty Hasselquist, 52, said her former husband had been "hounding" her.

The tiny woman called police Monday and screamed, "I shot my husband, hurry up."

Officers found Hasselquist, 54, staggering around Mrs. Hasselquist's home and "covered with blood."

He was hospitalized.

Mrs. Hasselquist was taken to again.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Erwin and son visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Swan, Thursday afternoon.

county jail. No charge was lodged immediately.

The couple was divorced several years ago. Officers said Mrs. Hasselquist was hysterical and nearly incoherent.

All she managed to tell them was that her ex-husband had been "hounding" her. She said she decided to attack him Monday while he was talking on the telephone.

She fired four shots from a .22 caliber pistol, wounding him in the hip with one shot.

She said she then clubbed him with a claw hammer and slashed his hands and arms with the knife.

THE GROWING TREND TO LINCOLN

To a lady with her eye on fashion and a man with his eye on action

Young lady—do you keep ahead? In fashions? In home decorations? In the way you live? If so, we're talking to you.

And sir—if you like action, this message is specifically for you. For the new Lincoln is the one fine car that comes closest to tomorrow—in design and performance.

Notice first the clean, trim look of the Lincoln. No bulging fenders or useless chrome. Functional beauty is built in every line. Second—drive this fine car. No other one on the road gives you such effortless response; for 2 years in a row Lincoln took 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th places among all stock cars in the Mexican Pan-American Road Race. (The Lincoln V-8 engine is the finest specimen of today's high-output, low-friction design. It has such exclusives as the vacuum-operated 4-barrel carburetor... and a precision-molded crankshaft for the utmost smoothness.)

And the Lincoln ride is purposely designed to be different—with its own kind of balance, poise and smoothness. The firm control, stability and easier handling are the result of the first major front suspension improvement in many years—the new ball-joint suspension found only in Lincoln among fine cars.

Won't you see the new Lincoln for yourself—and then drive it? Come in and let us hand you the keys to a Lincoln or a Lincoln Capri.

For the fourth straight year, Lincoln won first place in its field for economy in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run.

Report Bevo and Coach Will Team Up With Saperstein

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP)—Newt Oliver, talkative basketball coach of little Rio Grande College, said "no comment" today about reports he and high-scoring Clarence (Bevo) Francis will team up with Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Oliver did say he mailed in his resignation today, to be effective Sept. 1. Asked what he would do next fall, the coach said "that will be decided next Monday."

He refused to say any more about his plans, but denied a report out of Cleveland that he and Bevo had signed a contract with Saperstein. "Nothing has been signed and I don't know anything about the report," he said.

Meanwhile, Saperstein said in Chicago he had arranged to meet Oliver in New York next Monday to talk about a contract. The Globetrotter owner said he had done nothing about the matter as yet, but "that doesn't mean I won't."

Francis was let out of school last week for not attending classes and failing to make up exams. Earlier both Francis and Oliver said they might not return to Rio Grande next fall because of financial reasons.

House Group to Study Army Jobs Of Entertainers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigators for a House subcommittee were reported on tour today interviewing big name sports and entertainment figures on what they did, or are doing, while in military service.

Subcommittee sources said they are not out to embarrass any GI ball player or singer but to determine whether Chairman William E. Hess is right in suspecting the armed forces sometimes draft men off the gridiron or stage only to put them back on, at lower pay and in military uniform.

Only preliminary reports have come back so far but the Armed Services subcommittee already feels sure enough of its grounds to schedule public hearings starting April 27. The tentative witness list already includes names well known in the sports world.

Hess has emphasized he has nothing against sports and entertainment in the armed forces. He favors both. But he says they should be carried on after working hours, on a voluntary basis.

The Army has said it never assigns big league ball players and entertainers to sports and entertainment. It contends all such performers have regular GI jobs and perform in their chosen fields only on off-time.

Bonus Dollars for Players Don't Guarantee Base Hits

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—Bonus rookies, no matter how common, always have been curious items to this department. Whenever you speak of these well-heeled juveniles who come up to the majors, the talk invariably turns to the major bonus flops—fellows like Dick Wakefield, Paul Pettit and Frank House.

Pettit, in particular, always interested us. Just the other week, he was released by the Pirates—who gave him $100,000—to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League. If Pittsburgh owner John Galbreath can afford to toss money like that around for a minor leaguer, the notion here is to make a serious pitch to him for the outright sale of both the Brooklyn and Golden Gate bridges.

This interest caused us to take a good look at Joe Amalfitano, who got a cool $30,000 or so for signing a Giant bonus paper, serves as a striking example of the odds a kid stacks against himself when he enters baseball that way.

AS LEO DUROCHER'S NEW YORKERS streamed onto the field before a game with the Brooklyn Dodgers, a sturdy round-faced youngster trailed behind the pack and when he reached the bench he sat down quietly.

"Oh, I like the idea of being up here," the 19-year-old kid from southern California said. "And I think a guy can learn up here, if he stays on the ball. Alvin Dark and Leo and Henry Thompson, all the guys, they've been showing me things."

"I'll just sit around this year and watch them and then maybe get a chance to break into a game here and there and pile up a little experience. I was so nervous while in spring training at Phoenix that I couldn't buy a hit, but I think I'll settle down and maybe make the grade after awhile."

How he is going to learn to play baseball while sitting on the bench in a league much too fast for him at present is something which defies explanation. You just don't watch the way Carl Erskine throws a pitch and then step up there and begin to hit him. Nor will all the words of wisdom Al Dark can give teach the kid shortstop how to make a double play pivot correctly.

WHEN THE GIANTS SIGNED Amalfitano, they probably were figuring the way Casey Stengel did when the Yankees handed first sacker Frank Leja a whopping bonus.

Stengel felt it would be for the better if Leja went into the Army as quickly as possible so that the kid could at least get two years of service baseball experience before coming to the stadium. Amalfitano doesn't figure to be called up immediately because of a physical disability, as far as the Army is concerned.

When the two years that Amalfitano has to stay with us are up, the chances are the kid will have to get some farm experience, anyway," points out Garry Schumacher of the Giants' front office. "So what the rule has done to him is set his career back two years. If he could get some good farm play under his belt we believe he would be a fine player."

Amalfitano doesn't seem, on the face of things, too worried about the strange situation he is caught in.

1954 is Tough Season For 20-Game Winners

NEW YORK (AP)—Generally speaking, 1954 has so far proved a tough season for baseball's 20-game winners of 1953.

Of the eight pitchers who broke into the "charmed circle" last season, only Warren Spahn of the Braves and Bob Lemon of the Indians currently show "plus" records for this campaign, each with one win and no defeats.

Carl Erskine of the Dodgers and Mel Parnell of the Red Sox each are 0-2; Harvey Haddix of the Cards is 1-2; Robin Roberts of the Phils is 1-1; and Virgil Trucks and Bob Porterfield of the Senators each are 0-1.

'Cosmic Pitch' of White Sox' Harry Dorish Baffles Both Hurler and Batter

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Relief expert Harry Dorish once again has his "cosmic pitch" in perfect working order, which should be a big boon to the White Sox' pennant chances.

The favorite pitch of the 30-year old righthander confounds him as much as it does the batters. He has no idea why it acts as it does. He personally calls it a "slip ball."

His grateful teammates hung the "cosmic" tag on it.

"You throw it from the same motion as a fast ball but it just goes up to the plate and dies," he explained. "If the hitter is expecting a fast ball it can be a little confusing to him. Some time it darts off in one direction or the other but usually it just drops."

It was dropping perfectly Monday and so were the Detroit Tigers when he relieved rookie lefty Jack Harshman in the third inning with the bases loaded and one out and pitched shutout ball the rest of the way for a 5-1 victory. He struck out Walt Drogo and nailed rookie Al Kaline on a routine grounder in that inning then yielded only four singles to gain his first triumph. Last season, pitching in 35 games, Dorish won 10 and saved many others.

McDonald Hurls One-Hitter

Johnny Groth drove in two runs with a homer and a single to lead the White Sox batters in their third straight victory.

In other American League games, Jim McDonald of the Yankees pitched a one-hitter to defeat the Red Sox, 5-0, after Boston took the morning game of a Patriot's Day doubleheader, 2-1. At Washington, Eddie Yost hit a homer in the last of the ninth to give the Senators a 4-3 ninth victory over the Athletics.

In the National League, Pittsburgh took advantage of a five-run third inning in which it got only one hit to defeat the Giants 7-5, while the Dodgers defeated the Phillies, 9-7, and the Cardinals beat the Reds, 6-3.

Willard Nixon struck out 10 Yankees, including Mickey Mantle and Gil McDougald three times each in his five-hit triumph in the opener at Boston. The Yankees scored only in the ninth when, with the bases loaded, Ellis Kinder ended the game by striking out Mantle a fourth time. Jack Jensen hit his fourth homer for Boston. In the afternoon game, rookie Harry Agganis hit a second inning single to spoil McDonald's no-hitter. Hank Bauer hit his third homer and Mantle also poked one as the Yankees gathered 11 hits—their high for the season.

Yost hit his game-deciding homer off rookie Art Ditmar. Camilo Pascual, third Washington pitcher, hurled perfect ball in the last two frames to gain the victory.

Musial, Jablonski Homer
Jackie Robinson, with four hits in as many times at bat, drove in three runs with a homer, double and two singles in a Dodger night victory which snapped the Phillies' four-game winning streak. Pee Wee Reese also homered as the Dodgers pummeled four Philly hurlers for 18 hits. Southpaw Johnny Bodes relieved Don Newcombe in the third inning and gained the decision.

Back-to-back homers by Stan Bull Dog athletes face their busiest week of the school year this week, with three baseball games and two trackmeets on the schedule.

This afternoon the baseball team will play at West Frankfort and tomorrow afternoon the nine will travel to Galatia. The locals have beaten both of these teams in games at Taylor field this spring.

Thursday the track team will be engaged in a triangular track and field meet at Herrin, participating with Herrin and Pinckneyville. This meet will start at 6 p. m.

Friday afternoon the Bull Dogs will play a baseball game here with McLeansboro the opponent.

Saturday the track squad will take part in the annual West Frankfort relays.

George Washington did not belong to a political party.

Musial and Ray Jablonski of the Cardinals to their night win over the Reds. Harvey Haddix was the winner but he needed the help of Stu Miller and Al Brazie when the Reds picked up their final run in the ninth.

Pittsburgh took a 2-0 lead on Gail Henley's first inning homer, then put together four walks, a hit batsman and catcher's interference which gave another man his base in the weird third inning. After Jim Hearn loaded the bases, reliever Don Liddle forced home three straight runners, and Gair Allie drove in two more tallies with a single. Monte Irvin and Whitey Lockman homered for the Giants. Johnny Hetki pitched one-hit relief ball after Lockman touched him for a three-run homer in the fifth for his first victory.

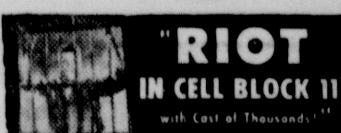

There were no other games scheduled.

Monday's Star: Jim McDonald of the Yankees, who pitched a one-hit, 5-0 victory over the Red Sox after Boston took the first game 2-1.

Richards saw the father was skirting the edge of a breakdown, spoke quickly to change the line of thought. "You were not here when Dunn and I came by yesterday evening—or last night. The first time, I mean. Where were you?"

"Out for a walk," Mayor Stone said.

"You weren't looking for your son?"

Stone buried his face in his hands. "It doesn't matter now, does it? All these years—wasted. Eddie would be alive now if I had put him in a home. But—I couldn't. Yes, I was out looking for Eddie. That is it. I was looking for the moment it seemed the father was beyond caring."

Jim Dunn slid in a question. "Your son was very interested in fairy stories?"

"Yes. He lived in a world of his own. A strange and wonderful world, where anything—anything good could happen."

"If I remember my fairy stories," Jim persisted, "there is also a considerable amount of violence, or killing and of death."

"Words," Mayor Stone said slowly. "Words."

Magic potions and killing, happy endings and cruel torture. Mark Richards got a question in. "Your son was quite friendly with Tony Hughes, Jr.?"

Chief Hughes gave no sign of attaching any meaning to the question, but his wife did not have such complete facial control. Her generous mouth tightened.

"Friendly?" Stone repeated. "Perhaps that's the way to put it. Young Tony was wonderful to Eddie and my boy idolized him. I think they would have done anything for each other. But of course they haven't seen much of each other lately."

"I believe," Jim put in, "that young Tony wrote a class play. About fairies, wasn't it?"

"Yes. Eddie enjoyed it thoroughly. But that was some years ago. Eddie would have forgotten by now. I think," Stone raised his head and looked directly at Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. There seemed to be a challenge in that look. A challenge or a threat.

Richards said, "Have you been able to get in touch with your son yet, Chief Hughes?"

"No. He may have called our home, though. I'll try to get in touch a little later."

Mayor Stone said firmly, "Now. Please."

Hughes glared at his friend Ed Stone.

The mayor went on quickly to explain. "In police work, anything that can be cleared up is a great step forward."

Chief Hughes shrugged. "I'll put through a call."

The call to Denver went through, and once again it was George Westrick who answered.

"My son up yet? This is Mr. Hughes again."

There was only a slight pause. "Gosh, Mr. Hughes," the young voice said. "I'm afraid you're going to hate me for this. But I promised Tony. I told him I wouldn't let anyone know until this morning. And, well, at a time like this I had to keep my word to him."

"Where is Tony?" Hughes demanded.

Margaret Hughes was on her feet now, straining to hear the thin voice coming over the wire.

"He's over in Aspen, Mr. Hughes. He—"

"Aspen? What's he doing over there?"

There was a very audible gulp from the Denver end of the wire.

"He went over there to get married. He got off the bus like I told you, and borrowed my car. He drove right over to Aspen and got married last night."

Chief Hughes let the receiver fall back onto the hook.

"What is it?" Mrs. Hughes demanded.

"Tony ran off and got married," Chief Hughes said grimly. His face softened a trifle. "What do you went out to meet his partner or director. And Eddie had keys to the back doors, Jim. So we know now how the person who shot Mansfield got in and out. And the keys are still missing. That means we'll have to go over Bruce's place carefully."

"You think he might qualify as the—partner?"

"He lives nearby," Richards pointed out. "He would be in a position to know all about Eddie Stone. He could even use his pets to get acquainted with the boy. Then there's that roll of heavy cord we found. And you can't get away from his knowing there was something wrong at Mansfield's before anyone else."

"Don't forget the cats," Jim said.

Brownell Asks For Power To Tap Wires

By United Press

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. asked the Senate today for full power to tap wires for evidence against spies and subversives.

Brownell told the Senate Judiciary Committee that a wiretap bill passed by the House contains restrictions that might "be fatal to the primary objective of bringing our traitors to justice."

The House bill would permit the attorney general to use evidence already obtained by wiretaps in prosecuting so-called national security cases. But it would require federal court orders to obtain and use such evidence in the future.

"It is my opinion," Brownell told the Senate committee, "that the wiretap technique would be attended by greater secrecy, speed, and better supervision by Congress if no court order was required."

Committee Chairman Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) promised that the issue will be handled as quickly as possible to keep the legislation from getting caught in any late-session log-jam.
